

- 1) Could a data processor carry out additional processing operations as data controller in relation to its provision of services to another data controller, if the activities to be carried out as controller have been detailed in a written, binding agreement, and if all the rights of data subjects (including the right to be informed) have been upheld?(e.g., additional analytics on data collected during the usage of a cloud-based platform by individual users within the original data controller's organization).