RECORD OF AMICABLE RESOLUTION FOR THE PURPOSE OF EDPB GUIDELINES 06/2022 ON THE PRACTICAL IMPLEMENTATION OF AMICABLE
SETTLEMENTS VERSION 2.0, ADOPTED 12 MAY 2022

Dated the 11th day of March 2024

Data Protection Commission
21 Fitzwilliam Square South
Dublin 2, Ireland

Background

1. On 20 August 2023, [REDACTED] (“the Data Subject”) lodged a complaint pursuant to Article 77 GDPR with the Data Protection Commission (“the DPC”) concerning MTCH Technology Services Limited (“the Respondent”).
2. The DPC was deemed to be the competent authority for the purpose of Article 56(1) GDPR.

The Complaint

3. The details of the complaint were as follows:
 - a. On 24 June 2023, the Data Subject submitted an access request to the Respondent following their account being banned. The Data Subject requested account information, profile information, chat history, usage data and any other data associated with their account. Specifically, they requested clarification regarding the reasons for the ban imposed on their account.
 - b. The Data Subject stated that they did not receive a response from the Respondent.

Action taken by the DPC

4. The DPC, pursuant to Section 109(4) of the Data Protection Act, 2018 (“the 2018 Act”), is required, as a preliminary matter, to assess the likelihood of the parties to the complaint reaching, within a reasonable time, an amicable resolution of the subject-matter of the complaint. Where the DPC considers that there is a reasonable likelihood of such an amicable resolution being concluded between the parties, it is empowered, by Section 109(2) of the 2018 Act, to take such steps as it considers appropriate to arrange or facilitate such an amicable resolution.
5. Following a preliminary examination of the material referred to it by the Data Subject, the DPC considered that there was a reasonable likelihood of the parties concerned reaching, within a reasonable time, an amicable resolution of the subject matter of the complaint. The DPC’s experience is that complaints of this nature are particularly suitable for amicable resolution in circumstances where there is an obvious solution to the dispute, if the respondent is willing to engage in the process. In this regard, the DPC had regard to:
 - a. The relationship between the Data Subject and Respondent (being, in this case, an individual consumer and a service provider); and
 - b. The nature of the complaint (in this case, an unsuccessful attempt by the Data Subject to exercise their data subject rights).
6. While not relevant to the assessment that the DPC is required to carry out pursuant to Section 109(4) of the 2018 Act, the DPC also had regard to EDPB Guidelines 06/2022 on the practical implementation of amicable settlements Version 2.0, adopted on 12 May 2022 (“Document 06/2022”), and considered that:

- a. the possible conclusion of the complaint by way of amicable resolution would not hamper the ability of the supervisory authorities to maintain the high level of protection that the GDPR seeks to create; and that
- b. such a conclusion, in this case, would likely carry advantages for the Data Subject, whose rights under the GDPR would be vindicated swiftly, as well as for the controller, who would be provided the opportunity to bring its behaviour into compliance with the GDPR.

Amicable Resolution

7. The DPC engaged with both the Data Subject and Respondent in relation to the subject-matter of the complaint. On 3 January 2024, the DPC wrote to the Respondent formally commencing its investigation and requesting that it address the concerns raised.
8. In its response, the Respondent noted that its Customer Care team had no record of receiving the Data Subject’s access request. The Respondent stated that, should it have received the access request, it would have provided instructions about how they could use its self-service Download My Data tool in order to obtain a copy of their personal data. The Respondent wrote directly to the Data Subject providing the instructions needed to access their data.
9. Regarding the account ban, the Respondent informed the Data Subject of the reason for their account being banned. The Respondent also decided to lift the ban on the account provided that the Data Subject committed to refrain from similar behaviour on its platform in future.
10. In light of the direct response provided by the Respondent to the Data Subject, as set out above, as well as the explanations it provided, the DPC considered it appropriate to conclude the complaint by way of amicable resolution. On 19 January 2024, the DPC wrote to the Data Subject outlining the Respondent’s response to its investigation. In the circumstances, the DPC asked the Data Subject to notify it, within a specified timeframe, if they were not satisfied with the outcome, so that the DPC could take further action. The Data Subject responded stating that they are satisfied with the actions taken by the Respondent and, accordingly, the complaint has been deemed to have been amicably resolved.
11. In circumstances where the subject-matter of the complaint has been amicably resolved, in full, the complaint, by virtue of Section 109(3) of the 2018 Act, is deemed to have been withdrawn by the Data Subject.

Confirmation of Outcome

12. For the purpose of Document 06/2022, the DPC confirms that:

- a. The complaint, in its entirety, has been amicably resolved between the parties concerned;
- b. The agreed resolution is such that the object of the complaint no longer exists; and
- c. Having consulted with the supervisory authorities concerned on the information set out above, as required by Document 06/2022 the DPC has now closed off its file in this matter.

13. If dissatisfied with the outcome recorded herein, the parties have the right to an effective remedy by way of an application for judicial review, by the Irish High Court, of the process applied by the DPC in the context of the within complaint.
